Oh no! I've been thinking about this woman on and off for the past couple of years and when I finally look her up I just knew. I am so sorry that this happened! She was such a kind and caring person in a very cold world. My deepest condolences to the family ~Kimberly B

Hello Cassandra, I can't stand not having you to talk to my dear friend. It's like I'm in a bubble drifting around feeling lonely and can't get to you! Knowing never on this earth will we ever have lunch, see holidays or just go somewhere for a cup of tea. This is so hard to comprehend. Although for you I hope you are happy and content and had touched the face of God. Oh! how sweet that had to be. I know you had to feel totally invigorated and bursting with love and joy knowing at that moment you were home. There will never be another you... God could not afford to put another you down here when he needed you with him! Love always, D ♡

Cassandra and I have been best friends for almost thirty seven years! She was a very beautiful kind person! She always made me (us) laugh from telling nursery rhymes too singing songs as well as her Sandy, Debbie, Cindy, Heather J soup stories that only she could tell. Sandy also was an avid reader always reading something.Loved learning all sorts of things ...she was hungry for knowledge.She loved being an esthetician she also gave perms and knew the latest styles she also cut hair and apply make-up although her true love was skin care (being an esthetician) Another quality she had was compassion she was a very mild mannered person...I never heard her yell at anyone Last but not least she was a very loving Mother to her Tosha and Tony.I'm going to miss Cassandra for the rest of my life and I know she is a one in a lifetime friend.I know she is home at last... free from pain!💔
