I've had the pleasure of knowing you for thirty years. I found it difficult this morning waking to a world without you in it. You loved to share the sage financial advice that was passed on to you from your father-in-law Regis. You enriched the lives of the many who were wise enough to heed your advice. I hope you are enjoying your 'return' to Tuscola Street and the loved ones who have been waiting to welcome you home. I'll miss you. - Dan
