Scott has been a positive, upbeat force in my professional life for a handful of years. I first met him when he was Assistant Manager at the Castle Shannon St. Vincent de Paul Thrift Store. Scott always had a smile in his heart that radiated on his face. He could make the best lemonade out of the sourest of lemons, choosing strength through positivity rather than the emptiness of negativism. Scott could have found the sunshine even amid a hurricane. He was a powerhouse of optimism especially when things might not be looking so good. A positive, upbeat force, for sure. Deep down, each of us desires to know that when all is said and done, our lives counted for something. Scott impacted people. Scott made a difference in my life. His "Glass Half Full" mindset was contagious. He lifted me. He valued me. He respected me even when he disagreed with my stubborn ideas. Scott mattered. I am profoundly grateful to have known him and am deeply saddened by his loss. Carolyn Kintzing
