Austin and my son have known each since grade school. A lot of years of watching these children grow into amazing adults. It breaks my heart to have to share memories this way. It's not fair and I can't seem to understand why such young men and women who have so much life ahead of them are chosen to part our living earth. May all the memories of Austin and his life fill your heart full of love and laughter. Although his time here on earth was short it certainly shows it was full of quality. It has been said, some people can pass through our lives without so much as a passing thought and then there are those who leave a mark on everyone they meet, it seems to me, Austin was the one who left an impression on everyone he met. May he continue to shine on. My deepest sympathy to all of you..Jill Weisbeker
