Joe and Sarah I just stumbled across this and I'm so sorry your mom passed away. Joe and I were good friends from about 4th or 5th grade and all through school. Mrs. Gordon was a lovely and wonderful person. I always admired how strong of a woman she was raising Joe and Sarah by herself. Mr. Gordon had passed away before Joe and I became friends. I remember going to see a lot of movies and weekly trips to the South Hills Village National Record Mart in her green Chevy Citation. I can only remember one time when she got mad at us. We used to find old electronics and take them apart. Then we would run an extension cord out in the yard and blow them up. I think she only got mad because all the lights would dim when we did this. And we did it for hours on end. I also remember watching Sarah growing up and getting into typical big brother little sister arguments with Joe. I no longer live in the Pittsburgh area and only found out Mrs. Gordon passing just before typing this. I would have been there had I known about it. It's been probably 30 years since I have seen or spoken to Joe and Sarah and hope you are both doing well. God bless Mike Eheman Greenville, PA

Dear Sarah, I'm so sorry for your loss, your mother was one of the nicest, kind, heart warming, intelligent funny considerable and strongest women I've ever known. Im very blessed to have been part of your and her life growing up. To this day I share stories with friends how you and I were best friends during our elementary years. Share your stories how your mom would take you and Joey to see Newest movies or how she had taken you guys to eat out at the smorgasbord and have fried ice cream. I always admired your mom playing the organ, piano and other instruments. Passing those musical gifts on to you. I never forget many Times being asked to eat over for dinner. Playing in the yard, riding those old fashion bikes or playing ping pong. Then years later after we grew up apart i would see and talk with your mom as she walked up our hill on her the way home. Your mom will truly be missed by me and everyone she touched. I miss you Sarah I wish I could have been there in your time of need. God bless you, Joey and your families. Sincerely, Judy Raso
