Georgann Palomba lit a candle in honor of Christine.

Christine was a remarkable woman who walked with Grace until the end. She was always a breath of fresh air and her smile and sense of humor would light up the room. We were talking here about her the other day and my favorite memories are when she would whisper something in my ear about whatever was happening and she would roll her eyes and laugh. So many days she would hold my hand as we walked toward Activities. People looking on would think I was leading her but no, not Christine, she was always guiding me toward being a better woman. I thank God for putting her in my life. She is missed.

I have many many memories of my childhood with Chris but my favorite memory is of the love story between Chris and Tom. Being slightly younger I thought they were the most romantic couple I ever knew and have many warm memories shared with them and their beautiful girls.
